

RAY BAKER MADE AN IMPRESSION ON THE WAITER

DINING CAR CONDUCTOR OBJECTED TO GUESTS NOT WEARING COATS.

It is a known fact that people must present a half-way decent appearance while dining in a dining car, but several weeks ago it took a southern Nevada to impress upon the mind of a dining car steward (or head waiter, whatever his title might be) that the rules in etiquette did not apply to this section of the desert.

It was a few days before the Jeffries-Johnson farce at Reno and the train for the north carried a few notables from this section, which included Mr. and Mrs. Newton Crumley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bragdon, of Goldfield, and Ray Baker, better known as Cleve Baker's brother. Ray, who always travels in his picturesque prospecting costume, which has created the opinion that this is the only suit he possesses, was in the party and passed the time by telling a number of anecdotes. When the call for dinner came, he doled up a little bit, by brushing his hair, and escorted a young lady into the diner. He was acquainted with the colored waiter who had served him a half dozen times before on former occasions, and was immediately escorted to a table which had been reserved. Just as the waiter was about to take the order, the Pullman steward approached. He was one of those pompous fellows, and it was probably his first trip into the desert section. In a loud voice, which could be heard all over the car, he informed Ray that he must don his coat before he would be served. Newton Crumley, who was at the table opposite, started to smile and remarked in an undertone that he was ready to make a book that the conductor was wrong. He could find no takers for about that time Harry Bragdon and his wife entered. Harry was attired in a soft shirt, and was in turn, informed of the rules.

"But Baker hasn't a coat on," expostulated the Goldfield man.

"And he will not be served until he is properly attired," responded the railroad official.

Bragdon was hungry and hurried back to his car and secured his coat. Baker in the meantime continued to argue the question with the car boss, who showed no signs of relenting. Suddenly he tilted his chair back and called to the waiter, who came running up. The outlines of a 44 galling, could be seen reposing inside of Baker's shirt, and this immediately caught the eye of the colored man, who turned about two shades pale and caused him to be all attention.

"Waiter," said Ray, "bring me everything on the menu, and bring it quick."

"Yes sah, yes sah, yes sah," was the response and he made a break for the kitchen. He gave the order to the cook and then started to explain.

"The steward said not to serve that fellow, but the fellow said to bring in everything, and he had a great big gat there. Don't you know that gun spoke a lot louder than the steward. It sure did and Mister Baker can have anything he wants."

Needless to say there was no further enforcement of the dining car rules during the remainder of that trip.

ACTIVITY IN ATHENS DISTRICT IS INCREASING

LEASERS ARE DEVOTING EFFORTS TO SECURE ADDITIONAL DEPTH.

(By Special Correspondence.)

The past week has been one of increased activity with the leasers operating on the Dyer Bollinger estate. The results achieved have been of an eminently satisfactory nature with the most of the leasers in search of the precious metal. Messrs. Price and Weedman on the Vulcher claim have concededly the most flattering showing. Sixteen inches of ore at the bottom of a ten feet shaft is estimated to go not less than $75 per ton, with chances very good to go, even better. This lead is prolific of very handsome samples of free gold which are in great demand. The shaft will soon be equipped in a day or two with windlass, cable and bucket which arrived last Sunday from Manhattan. During the past four or five days Mr. Price has been prospecting a spur vein about 40 feet up the hill towards the north and has found a vein which appears to be approximately 6 inches in width and carries estimated values of $100 per ton, according to the hornings taken for a length of 65 feet on the strike of the vein. The vein runs a true northeast and southwest course and dips northward. It forms a junction at a point 30 feet west of the hole in which Mr. Price made the original strike of ore. In this tunnel 85 feet east of the shaft the crosscut which is being driven north is under cover 17 feet. The formation is changing and small pinnings for the last three feet indicate the near approach of the Dwyer vein in which Mr. Price made the original discovery and which Mr. Weedman and his partner expected to cut in the next five or six feet of work. The vein when cut in the tunnel will give a vertical depth on the vein of between 25 and 30 feet and the chances are very fair for a grade of ore that will pay to ship.

The Price and Weedman and H. J. Hall leases last Thursday consolidated for the purpose of sinking one shaft instead of two with two shifts employed in order to prove up their ground and start shipments of ore forward as soon as the first level at 50 feet is reached. The lease has been fitted up with windlass, bucket, etc. and all the prospects are good for this lease to reach considerable depth during the present forthcoming month.

Fulkerson, Stevenson and Auxier number 1 lease on the Vulcher claim of Dyer and Bollinger group, is losing no time in gaining depth in their 4½x6-foot shaft which is an incline following the hanging wall contact. The vein appears to dip 40 to 45 degrees southeast. The shaft is now down 35 feet and is the deepest workings in the camp. Pannings from the vein as near as can be estimated, average $20 to $30 per ton. The values are expected to run nearly half that amount when assays can be had as part of the values seen in the iron pyrites, which are out in hornings.

IN MEMORIAM.

Hall of Desert Queen Rebekah Lodge No. 22, I. O. O. F., Tonopah, Nevada.

Whereas, another link in our fraternal chain has been broken by the passing from our midst of our beloved sister, Lillian Sawle, July 7, 1910.

Whereas, through the death of this sister, Desert Queen Rebekah Lodge No. 22, has lost a faithful and earnest member, one whose good deeds and loving countenance will ever live in our memories. Therefore, be it resolved, that as a lodge we sadly mourn her loss and extend our heartfelt sympathy to her bereaved relatives in their great sorrow.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the sorrowing relatives, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and be it further resolved that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days.

ARE SEEKING WHEREABOUTS OF BENJ. OAKLEY

SHERIFF'S OFFICE NOTIFIED THAT HE IS ENTITLED TO MONEY FROM STATE.

Sheriff J. J. Robb yesterday received a communication from State comptroller, asking for information concerning one Benjamin F. Oakley who has due him $50.65 from the state for transportation advanced for Emma Oakley. The warrant was drawn on June 6, 1907, and unless claimed by Oakley will revert to the state in a short time. Inquiries were made about town yesterday but it was impossible to secure any information as to the identity of the person sought, although many were of the opinion that the name was familiar.

Sheriff Robb is of the opinion that Emma Oakley was the wife of Benjamin Oakley, and was sent to the asylum at Reno and that the money due Oakley is for an equal amount he advanced in transportation and other charges.
